VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Rousing Mass Meeting at the Court House Last Night--Ringing Resolutions Adopted.

MANY PATRIOTIC SPEECHES

Loyal Sentiments Cheered--Viva Cuba Libre--Long Live the Land of the Free and the Home of the Brave.

The mass meeting held at the court house last evening, pursuant to a call published in the NEW MEXICAN for the purpose of expressing the sentiments of the citizens of Santa Fe in the matter of the declaration of war with Spain, was largely attended, the court house being crowded to its fullest capacity.

Many prominent citizens were present, among them Governor Otero, Chief Justice Mills, Judge John R. McFie, Hon. Antonio Ortiz y Salazar, Judge A. L. Morrison, Atanacio Romero, B. M. Read, Luciano Baca, Hon. T. B. Catron, Solicitor General E. L. Bartlett, Amado Chavez, C. M. Conklin and many others.

The meeting was organized as follows: Amado Chavez, president; Luciano Baca, A. J. Rael, C. M. Conklin, A. Abeytia, vice presidents, and Geo. A. Johnson and Juan Delgado, secretaries. Mr. Alex. Read had previously stated that the object of the meeting was to give the people of New Mexico an opportunity to say to the world what they had to say in reference to our war with Spain.

The organization selected a committee of nine to draft resolutions, composed of the following:

Amado Chavez, chairman, Benj. M. Read, Gaspar F. Ortiz, Atanacio Romero, Mariano F. Sena, Marcelino A. Ortiz, H. L. Ortiz and Telesforo Rivera.

During the deliberations of the committee, speeches were called for, Governor Otero being first, and in a patriotic and sensible speech, among other things, said:

"I believe the people of New Mexico are as patriotic as any people of any state in the Union. The people of this territory are as anxious to go to the front as the people of any other state. The territory will send more men in proportion to its population than any other state in the Union. I am getting tired of hearing that the New Mexican people are not loyal to the stars and stripes. I have gone to the bottom of these stories, and I would like to see the man who told the story about me. What do we care about Spain? I am a New Mexican, and in saying that, I am saying that I am an American. I am for the American flag, and I don't want to hear anybody say they are for Spain. These stories are for the purpose of prejudicing the people of the east against us. We have a war on our hands now, and we want no Republicans, no Democrats, no Populists, in fact no person interfering with its successful prosecution. Let us all be Americans. We are fortunate in the selection we made for our president at this time. He is one of the greatest presidents we ever had. President McKinley showed his confidence in the New Mexican people when he organized the first regiment of volunteers, and he has shown his confidence in the New Mexican people when he organized the first regiment of volunteers. The governor paid a high tribute to the loyalty of New Mexico and closed his address by announcing that Mr. J. E. Hurley, of the Santa Fe railway, who was present, would help New Mexico in this matter in any way he could. It is our trust that the legislature to pay whatever it may see fit."

Judge A. L. Morrison made a rousing speech wherein he said: War and victory are synonymous terms to Americans. We stand by our country, right or wrong. When war is declared there is no room for a third party in the United States. We are neither Mexicans, Frenchmen, Germans or Irishmen—we are all Americans. If there are any people entitled to the title of Americans, these people are in New Mexico. Judge Morrison declared that the persons, who circulated the stories about the loyalty of New Mexico, were the enemies of the United States. He paid a glowing tribute to the loyalty of the New Mexican people, and said that the inequality of the United States is equal under the flag. "Who are the Cubans?" said he. "Do they not speak the Spanish language? The Cubans want the same freedom that we have, and why shouldn't they have it? I believe it is the destiny of the United States to be a great nation, and I believe it is the duty of the United States to protect the rights of the people of the western hemisphere. I believe in God's own good time the United States will own every one of the West Indies. That will come in its own time, we will finish our present little job first. I think if we live those stand against the American flag will be waving over Havana. Then there will be a free Cuban republic. Then they will be free to do just as they please. For one, I don't like war, but peace is worse than war sometimes. We have heard of 300,000 people done to death by that mad Weyler, and we bore it as long as humans could. Now every hour we can hear of Spanish successes. I don't know how Spain is going to fight, but I will surrender in a few weeks. I don't know what she will do with her fleet. I wish some of them would come over here. I sometimes wish I could see some of those banners in the outer bay of New York. They would never get away again. This war will be conducted upon as humane principles as it is possible for it to be conducted. Sometimes wish I were young; but we old men have done our best in our time, and now it falls to you young men to defend the honor of this noble flag." Mr. Morrison paid a very beautiful tribute to the national emblem, and concluded by saying: "We will show our friends of the east what we New Mexicans will do. Some of our boys will be leaving us in a few days, and the ladies of Santa Fe are going to make as handsome a flag as can be made and give them to carry with them east. The conduct of our troops will dispel all doubts of our loyalty before the people of the east, and later, when the smoke of war has cleared away, we will demand and get statehood."

Chief Justice W. J. Mills, of Las Vegas, made a short but stirring speech. Judge Mills said he was surprised before he left Las Vegas to hear that the people of Santa Fe were disloyal to the United States, and that this morning surprised when he got to Santa Fe to hear the same things said about Las Vegas. He felt assured that no disaffection existed of any moment, either in Santa Fe or in Las Vegas or elsewhere in New Mexico. The citizens of New Mexico had shown their loyalty heretofore many a time on the field of battle and were ready and willing to do so again and especially in a

Judge Mills said he was surprised before he left Las Vegas to hear that the people of Santa Fe were disloyal to the United States, and that this morning surprised when he got to Santa Fe to hear the same things said about Las Vegas. He felt assured that no disaffection existed of any moment, either in Santa Fe or in Las Vegas or elsewhere in New Mexico. The citizens of New Mexico had shown their loyalty heretofore many a time on the field of battle and were ready and willing to do so again and especially in a war to free Cuba, ever remembering the bitter struggles and hardships endured by their forefathers, whether of English or Spanish descent to gain independence from foreign yokes.

Hon. T. B. Catron then addressed the meeting in his usual convincing and able manner.

His line of thought was connected throughout, and a synopsis would fall far short of doing him justice. He got right down to a business talk with people with whom he was well acquainted. The kind of talk that counts with men who are able to think.

The committee on resolutions then reported the following:

Whereas, Designing and evil-minded persons have circulated false and malicious statements to the effect that the Spanish people of New Mexico are giving their sympathy to the Spanish government in the present war with the United States, therefore, be it

Resolved, by the people of Santa Fe in mass meeting assembled, That we denounce all such statements as false and wicked slanders on our loyal people, who, from their first connection with the United States, have proved their devotion to our institutions in peace and war on every occasion.

That we denounce the authors of such vile slanders as enemies of our good people and calumniators of the fair fame of the territory and enemies of American institutions.

That we heartily endorse every action of the president and congress in declaring and maintaining war against the kingdom of Spain; that we pledge ourselves to honor every call the administration may make upon us with our lives, our fortunes and our sacred honor.

The report was unanimously adopted by a standing vote. Amid cheering the band struck up "Star Spangled Banner." Three cheers for Cuba Libre were vociferously given.

Hon. Amado Chavez then addressed the meeting in Spanish. He said in substance:

"I am one of those who have lived under the impression that all our troubles ought to be settled peacefully, but the time has come when this matter must be settled by the sword. Our citizens must advance to the front and prove to the world that the people of New Mexico are loyal to the United States. I am glad that my fellow citizens have, one by one, offered their services to the governor. Our resolutions express our sentiments. We are ready to offer our lives in the support of our government." He then followed with a short historical sketch of the services of New Mexicans during the many Indian campaigns and the war of the rebellion.

After the conclusion of Mr. Chavez' admirable speech the mass meeting adjourned sine die amidst loud shouts of defiance toward Spain, yells for Cuba Libre and hurrahs and vivas for the United States of America, proclaimed in pretty good English and in very emphatic Spanish.

HEALTH CATECHISM.

To Be Committed to Memory By All Dyspeptics, Invalids, Consumptives.

What is the first cause of nine-tenths of all disease?

Imperfect digestion of food.

Why does imperfect digestion cause disease of other organs?

Because blood, nerves, muscles, bone and flesh are derived from the food we eat and digest. If digestion is perfect the blood is pure, nerves and muscles strong, flesh firm. If the digestion is poor, the blood is supplied from half-digested, fermenting food, irritating every nerve and organ. The result is, sooner or later, organic disease, because every organ being poisoned, the weakest gives away first and we have liver trouble, kidney complaints, heart disease or consumption.

Is not dieting the usual and best treatment to cure indigestion?

No, because the dyspeptic has been starved long enough; what is needed is abundant nourishment, not a lack of it. The stomach and blood demand nutriment, not bran crackers.

What is the best method of cure?

Plenty of wholesome food well digested.

But how can a weak stomach digest plenty of wholesome food?

By taking with the food after each meal certain harmless remedies which are known to digest food and thus nourish the blood and rest the weak stomach.

What are these harmless remedies?

The most valuable are vegetable ferments, pure pepsin, Golden Seal and fruit salts. All of these are now combined in the form of pleasant tasting tablets sold by druggists under the name of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Are these tablets superior to the various liquid preparations so called dyspepsia cures?

Most decidedly, because all liquid medicines become stale with age and lose whatever good qualities they may have had originally, while the tablet retains its properties indefinitely. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets can be carried in the pocket, always at hand ready for use when traveling or at daily occupation. They cost but cents and should be kept in every family. They keep the digestion perfect and save doctor's bills by warding off disease.

Are Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets adapted to all forms of dyspepsia?

Yes, because in all cases the trouble results from indigestion, fermented food. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets cause the food to be digested before it has time to ferment.

If you wish to know more about them ask your druggist for a package and try them.
